

RAPID RESPONSE TEAM TRAINING

The Gordon Center for Simulation & Innovation in Medical Education is accredited as a provider of nursing continuing professional development by the American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation. Learners must participate in 100% of the activity to be awarded 4 nurses contact hours.

PRACTICAL, HANDS-ON, 4-HOUR COURSE

- Describe the significance of effective teamwork to good patient outcomes in a crisis response
- Define dynamic decision-making as it applies to crisis management
- Review the importance of role assignment, good communication, workload distribution, resource utilization, and situational awareness in emergency response
- Define metacognition and relate this concept to successful crisis management behaviors equipment, and utilization in the clinical and non-clinical setting
- Demonstrate clinical skills and teamwork behaviors in four simulated scenarios

THIS TRAINING IS ESSENTIAL FOR:

- Joint Commission National Patient Safety Goals and Core Measures
- Effective communication during crisis event
- Promoting professional development
- IHI 5 Million Lives Campaign Objectives

THIS COURSE SUPPORTS:

- Rapid Response Team Implementation
- Nursing Quality Improvement Initiatives
- Medical-Surgical Orientation
- Annual CE Requirements for Nursing

